ABSTRACT

Methods of treating or preventing carbonic anhydrase associated disorders or diseases in a subject in need of such treatment as prevention comprising the administration of cyclooxygenase—2 inhibitors, or structurally related compounds, having carbonic anhydrase inhibitory properties, as well as combinations of the cyclooxygenase—2 inhibitors, or structurally related compounds, with anti-inflammatory agents or drugs, antineoplastic agents or drugs or ophthalmic agents or drugs in methods of treatment and prevention of disorders or diseases.